SAYS CALDER BILL BEARS TOO HEAVILY

Report Opposing Coal Regulation Measure.

(Huerla) to The Evening World,) WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.-Opposition to the drastic Federal regulation of the coal industry as provided in the the great bulk of coal last year moved Calder bill is made by Senator Gay of Louisiana, in a minority report from the Calder committee, which he declares did not thoroughly gtudy the coal situation, but reached its conclusions from a hasty and partial sur-

While favoring the procurement of full statistics as to production and consumption of coal, the Senator does not believe power should be conferred upon a Federal bureau to require quaint the Government with their business secrets. He classes the Calder bill as "sweeping and drastic Federal regulation and interference with business," and that it would prove "the entering wedge for a widespread system of attempted Federal regulation of metal mining, oil, iron and steel, lumber and other industries, which is repugnant to every principle of American institutions."

He does not agree "with some theorists that we shall perpetuate reguintions made necessary by the war," and says regulations of price would produce widespread inequities. He opposes the licensing feature on the ground that it would subject business

Clothing Manufacturers Become Retailers

Benefit of Lower Prices Suits and Overcoats to Be Sold Below Cost of Production

The buyers' strike which has been revailing for some time in the clothbetween the Wholesale clothing manufacturer and the Retailer. The retail merchant is stocked up with clothing purchased at high price levels and persistently refuses to come down in price to meet the accumulating de-mand on the part of the public, which stands by waiting to purchase when the price seems to be reasonable. The Retailer hangs on to his high prices on account of the high cost to him-hav-ing purchased his present stock of elothing at the artificially high price demanded before the public determined to stop buying at these unrea-sonable levels. The Retailer either must take his loss by disposing of his stock at cheaper prices, or meet com-petition from a source which is prepared to come down to the level of what the public is ready and willing to pay. The business of the Manufacturer must go on in spite of the Retailer's refusal to unload and stock up again at the low prices the Manufacturer is waiting to offer him. This continued refusal of the Retail Merchant to sell present stock, and thereby conribute his share in the readjustmen left the Wholesale clothing trade wit market for their goods. The only solution of the problem, unless the Manufacturer closes up shop, is for him to reach the public directly and independently of the Retailer, offer ng his clothing to the consumer a the prices at which he has been en deavoring to sell them to the retail trade. The Manufacturer is stocked up with a surplus of goods and must keep his plant going, even if he has to stand a loss in doing so. The pub-will undoubtedly reap the benefit of this method of merchandising by paying the wholesale price for its etc. All sizes. Some Beaded. Whether the buying public will re spond to this opportunity to get their clothes cheap is soon to be tried on by a combination of wholesale cloth ing manufacturers of high repute who are responsible for this new idea of disposing of their stock of clothing They have rented places at 40 John S sale their entire stock of High Clas-Clothing at wholesale prices—the self-same prices at which they have been offering them to the retail trade. This stock consists of men's and young men's suits and coats at prices from $17.50 to $32.50. With these manufacturers it is simply a matter of selling at the cost of manufacture, and even below cost, or close up. The Manufacturer's necessity in this case becomes the Cousumer's Opportunity.
